TONIGHT'S PREVIEW
Tonight, the Stingrays will take on the Ghost Pirates for the second of nine meetings between the two teams this season. South Carolina is 9-1-1 all-time against Savannah. In the last matchup between these two teams, Savannah won 3-2 in overtime with Brent Pedersen tallying the game winner.

LAST TIME OUT
South Carolina snapped a four-game losing streak and defeated the Jacksonville Icemen in overtime on Wednesday night. Josh Wilkins ended the game with a highlight-reel toe-drag goal 4:49 into overtime. It was Wilkins’ team-leading fifth goal of the year. Garin Bjorklund picked up his second victory of the season and stopped 24 of 26 shots.

WHO'S HOT: Connor Moore has tallied a primary assist in four straight games and is currently tied with Kevin O’Neil for the Stingrays lead in points with nine. Moore also leads the Stingrays with eight assists.

GIBSON IN GOAL: Mitch Gibson is back between the pipes after spending the last week in the AHL with the Hershey Bears. He is 1-1-1 in three games with the Stingrays and 1-0 in one game with Hershey. He stopped 22 of 25 shots the last time South Carolina and Savannah squared off on November 4th.

PENALTY KILL: The Stingrays have killed twelve straight penalties and have not allowed a power play goal since Savannah’s Simon Pinard scored on November 4. Their road penalty kill is 22/23 (95.7%) and ranks third in the ECHL.

STAT OF THE NIGHT: South Carolina has gone to overtime in four of their last 6 games. No team has had more games decided in overtime or a shootout. They have faced four South Division opponents and they have faced three of them in overtime including Jacksonville twice. They are 2-2 in OT this season.
